A MESSAGE FROM SHEILA CROUSHORE, GCFP PRESIDENT

If a year was tucked inside of a clock, then Autumn would be the magic hour."

Victoria Erickson

When cleaning summer's spent flowers, remember to leave behind some seed heads and leaf piles to overwinter some of our native wildlife. There is nothing more surprising this time of the year than to see a flock of monarchs on the neighbor's corn heading south, or the eastern bluebirds making their way back to warmer weather. The hummingbirds are gone, but our winter birds are set. We are lucky to have some wildlife that call our gardens home this time of the year.

As migration occurs in the wild, we also have members that overwinter in warmer climates. Please make sure the GCFP Database Manager, Joanne Baylis, knows your temporary address. For those of us staying to watch the leaves fade, start clearing out your closets and gather old treasures, containers, dried materials, books, or anything you are finished with. Bring them along to a board meeting or your club meeting to share with a new friend.

This summer has been filled with Flower Shows, Garden Tours, Picnics, Convention Meetings, and Blue Star Memorial Dedications. Thanks to all of you for your hospitality.

In August the GCFP Officers met via ZOOM with the Club Presidents, Club VP's, Directors, and Assistant Directors. The topics included the GCFP Website Forms, the updated Presidents Annual Report Form, the GCFP structure starting at the club level of membership, who to contact with questions, Garden Club Acronyms, and keeping our Database updated. Our Webmaster also attended to answer questions on our new site.

The GCFP Officers attended the District Annual meetings, what a great honor. It is wonderful to see everyone in person and to hear what everyone across the state is working on.

We are gearing up for the CAR-SGC Conference being held at Seven Springs in November. Hoping to see you all there!

"Autumn leaves show us how beautiful it is to let things go." Unknown

THE NOSTALGIC NAKED LADY

Marilyn Small, Wayne Woods Garden Club

Isn't it remarkable how a smell, a flavor, a song or an event can trigger our senses to take us to a place of nostalgia? Some of us even have lovely memories triggered by a flower -- possibly a vibrant color, the scent or texture. Such is the case of my mother-in-law and the Naked Lady flower. (You were thinking something else?)

The Naked Lady, also known as Belladonna Lily (or Colchicum), is a type of Amaryllis, with belladonna meaning a beautiful woman or lady. They are named the Naked Lady because they are a late-blooming bulb that flowers after the green foliage has died back, making it appear naked.

In my 49 years of marriage, I have always known the flower to be "Sam's Birthday Flower," which is what my husband's mother always called it. It wasn't until several years ago that I learned its real name.

My mother-in-law is no longer with us, so I can't ask her how she came into possession of the bulb, but I do know that she had them at her home since my husband was born. We would walk the yard on our visits, and she would invariably point out the flower and comment on Sam's birthday coming soon, since their bloom is an annual reminder of her eldest son's arrival.

The flowers usually bloom in my area during the first week of August, and they seem to almost pop up overnight! I drive the streets of my beautiful little town and see them everywhere. They greet us with their lovely trumpet blooms each year while we are preparing for back to school and the dog days of summer. Of course, it is an instant reminder that my husband's birthday is soon, and I need to get a birthday card and gift.

It's also an opportunity for me to quietly remember my mother-in-law and her profound admiration for gardening and her love for her son. She was a kind, lovely lady, and when she passed, she left me many things—furniture, recipes, jewelry. The most treasured thing she left me, though, was the Naked Lady flower, which we transplanted from her garden to ours.

BEE GAP

Bonita Herman, Chairman.

Well, if you haven't yet, it is now time to bring in your Mason Bee houses. Remember to keep it in a cold, not freezing area such as an unheated garage with a blanket, or in a covered box. I am going to put mine in an old ice chest. In real life the snow insulates the nesting areas so we need to simulate nature.

If you are able to remove the tubes, put them in a paper bag and store in a refrigerator, or as above in a garage since you need to keep them from freezing. There is a full-sized adult bee sleeping in its cocoon. You will keep them in this place until the spring, and as I have said before, when the dandelions are blooming in your area, that is the time to place your hotel in the southeast facing morning sun area.

Crownbees.com sells cocoons and I did buy two boxes. I taped them to the top of the hotel and waited. After about a week the males with the white dot on their face, emerged. After 7-10 days, out came the females. As soon as the next day she is laying eggs.

Last week, I had a booth about Mason Bees/Native Bees at a Master Gardener Pumpkin Walk in Erie, and it still surprises me how little the general public knows about these fascinating bees. As soon as children saw my stand, their response was "Yuck, I hate bees, they sting."

I had handouts and a video to show of my bee hotel of females going in and coming out of the little reeds. When I mentioned to the adults that they all have these bees in their gardens, they were more concerned about the carpenter bees and the damage they cause.

Here are a couple of videos I encourage you to watch.

- My Garden of 1000 Bees, which uses a special camera to get up close and personal with bees. About 30 min. long.
- Mason Bee video on PBS digital Studio, which shows a female making a nest, collecting pollen, and laying an egg. About 5 min. long

I have visited several garden clubs with my program about our Native and Mason Bees. I am hoping to continue educating more and more people.

DO YOU KNOW THE DIFFERENCE?

People lately have been using the following words incorrectly. Do you know the difference?

Farther or further. If you want to be sure not to make a mistake, the simplest rules to follow are:

- Use farther only when you are referring to distance, literally or figuratively.
- Use further only to mean "more."

Titled or entitled.

- If something is "titled" it means that it received such a title, either by the author or by someone else - like the title of a book, or of a song you wrote.
- Entitled, on the other hand, means that a person has rights to something - like when you're entitled to free snacks because you've done something to deserve it.

HOLIDAY HOUSE TOUR

Jill Evans, Norristown Garden Club

Norristown Garden Club's traditional Holiday House Tour is back! On Friday, December 9, 2022 from 10 to 8, five private homes and a church rectory will be featured in "Ambler, Then and Now."

Former entrepreneur Richard Mattison's home, Lindenwald Castle, was recently demolished, but ticket holders will have an opportunity to see a new home constructed on those grounds as well as several that Mattison had built nearby in the early 1900s for his managers. One of these homes appeared in the movie "The Trouble with Angels." Also showcased on this tour will be two 20th Century homes on the other side of the town of Ambler, in The Ridings neighborhood.

Tickets are limited in number, $30 each, and nonrefundable. The tour is rain or shine. Please see norristowngardenclub.org for information about tickets for this interesting tour, or call 610-279-9762 and leave a message.

EXCEPTIONAL HORTICULTURALIST AWARD

JoAnn Celaschi, Horticulture Coordinator

I want to make everyone aware of an important award that can be given at each District's Annual September meeting - the Exceptional Horticulturist Award.

There is no special form to submit for this award but rather a letter should be submitted to me by August 1st identifying the club member who is an exceptional horticulturalist. Be sure to identify the club and the district of the nominee and describe their experience in growing a variety of samples of horticulture, their education in this area and examples of their sharing of their expertise. Photographs are not required.

A lengthier description of the qualifications for this award can be found on the GCFP website under Information Resources. The Honor Roll of Exceptional Horticulturalists lists past winners and can be accessed on the GCFP Directories page. The nominations for this award can be submitted to me by e-mail at celaschi@hotmail.com, or mailed to me at JoAnn Celaschi, 1216 Lookout Ave., Charleroi, PA 15022-2028.

includes fountain grasses, feather reed grasses, and various hydrangea cultivars.

PUT DOWN YOUR RAKES

Leslie Anthony, GCFP Pollinator Restoration Chair

When you rake leaves in the fall you may be throwing away next year's butterflies. The vast majority of butterflies overwinter in our backyards. They go into a form of hibernation called diapause which makes their bodily functions stop until the weather warms up again. Some butterflies actually overwinter as adults. They find safe places to rest deep in the bark of trees, rock crevices or other natural shelters. These butterflies are usually the last to be seen in the fall and the first to reappear in the spring. Early in the season, they often feed on tree sap. Examples include Mourning Cloak and Question Mark butterflies.

Caterpillars of many butterfly species survive winter by burrowing into leaf litter as fall approaches. Other caterpillars sew a leaf to a twig of their host plant. Then they put a layer of silk over the leaf and, as the silk dries, it draws the sides of the leaf into a tight roll around its body. The caterpillars stay inside the leaf roll during the winter and emerge in the spring when their host plants begin to grow. Examples include Great Spangled Fritillary and Viceroy butterflies.

Butterflies who spend the winter as a chrysalis (pupa) attach themselves to tree bark, leaf litter or plant stems. Their development stops through winter and starts again when warm weather returns. They emerge as adult butterflies just as nectar-rich spring flowers are beginning to bloom. Examples include many species of Swallowtail and Skipper butterflies.

Very few butterflies overwinter as eggs. The eggs are laid in the fall in leaf litter near the base of host plants. The eggs hatch in the spring when the host plant begins to put on new growth. Examples include Banded Hairstreak and Bronze Copper butterflies.

Any butterfly that is unable to withstand freezing temperatures must move south for the winter. Monarchs migrate over great distances. Most migrating butterflies only travel a little further south for the winter. These include Painted Lady and Variegated Fritillary.

As you prepare your garden for the winter, remember the butterflies and leave the leaves. They are sheltering overwintering butterfly caterpillars, chrysalises and eggs. A thin layer of leaves can actually help turf—but too much will kill the grass. Rake extra leaves into areas of your yard where they are out of the way. Add a 2-to-3-inch layer of leaves over your flower and vegetable gardens and pile more leaves around your ornamental trees and shrubs. Bonus: A thick layer of leaves in garden beds is a great soil amendment. The leaves will also help plants survive spring freeze-thaw cycles and minimizes weed problems early in the spring.

It may appear a bit untidy but I have learned to appreciate my fall and winter landscape. Though I cannot see the butterflies, I know they are there and will grace me with their presence when the weather warms again.

Note: Like the butterflies, most pollinating insects need to shelter over winter. Your fallen leaves will help them too.

GCFP PRENNIAL BLOOM AWARD

GCFP Awards Chair, Sheri Lowry

“Honoring a Long Time Club Member Whose Continuous Support of our Goals and Objectives makes our Clubs Grow and Bloom”

Audry Stengel
Pottstown Area Garden Club
District II/III

Our 2022 GCFP Perennial Bloom Award Recipient was nominated by her club in recognition of her dedication and willingness to work tirelessly toward the viability and continued success of her club.

- Producing the monthly club newsletter
- Preparing all the club’s Flower Show Schedules
- Chairing her club’s annual plant sale fundraiser, including purchasing plants, transporting, setting up, and treating workers to pizza and treats afterwards
- Hosting and presenting workshops about hypertufa, concrete leaf designs, and repurposed bowling ball bees and ladybugs at her home
- Co-Chair of the 2012 Annual District II/III Luncheon
- Co-Chair of the 2017 GCFP Convention
- Hosted monthly Zoom meetings for her club and District during Covid-19
- Volunteered last year to take on the leadership positions of 2nd Vice-President and Program Chair when those positions were unexpectedly vacated

Audry is also a full-time court stenographer, an active and involved church member, and caretaker for her chronically ill husband and aged parent.

Audry will be awarded her certificate at the GCFP 2023 Convention. Audrey’s nomination has been forwarded to the CAR-SGC Awards Chair to be considered for the CAR-SGC Golden Perennial Bloom Award. The winner will be announced at the CAR-SGC Convention in early November.

SWEET PEA AWARD

Jane Kruse, District II/III Director

Ellen Phraner stepped beyond typical gardening of her yard and adopted Bryant Park in Stroudsburg, PA. She saw a vacant, neglected corner in the town, and approached the officials about creating a people park of which she was quite eager to help design and maintain.

A gazebo, some playground equipment, a few large trees and environmentally sensitive landscaped edging is inviting for anyone to stop by for a brief rest. Just before recognition by GCFP, Ellen and her work appeared on WNEP TV’s Home and Backyard segment. She received the Sweet Pea Award of District II/III and GCFP Seeds of Service youth involvement recognition by Sheila Croushore.

Over the years, Ellen spends many days weeding, planting, giving tours, answering questions and planning events at Bryant Park. She schedules work sessions with neighborhood children, plans activities for Girl Scout badges, holds fun and challenging projects and posts events on the park bulletin board. Children give a friendly greeting of “Hi, Ellen” as they walk home from school.

Gardening for the community, as well as her home, is what makes Ellen Phraner special. Ask any child or parent in the neighborhood.

GIANT OAKS GC

Submitted by Judie Ball, GOGC Co-President,
BJ Nerone, Oak Leaf Editor

Giant Oaks Garden Club is proud to recognize the numerous members who garnered District X and GCFP awards.

Ten Tulip Awards for new members and sponsors, three Daffodil Awards for activities in a special project, and five Laurel Awards to recognize contributions to the Club were recognized at the recent District X meeting.

In addition, GOGC also congratulates members who took special competitive awards. For the eleventh time in the past thirteen years, a GOGC member won the District X Butterfly Award for outstanding service and dedication to District X, GOGC, and the community. Carole Mack, who joined us in 2021, accepted the Butterfly Award, and Katherine Gentile received second place in the GCFP Horticulture Award. The Club is also proud that our newsletter, the Oak Leaf, took top honors for our club size, and our 2021 Yearbook received second place in the Publication division.

The club continues collecting plastic bottle caps for our recycling campaign. In October alone, the club gathered 18,000 caps to be made into “hydroblox” planks used in water control. We are also happy that many other garden clubs and community groups have reached out to ask how they can get involved in this effort.

As always, our major fall event is the annual Tinsel luncheon. Our November event, “Enchanted Christmas,” attracts 400 guests and features vendors, raffle baskets, door prizes, and a bakery of homemade items as well as a delicious luncheon and horticultural program. Most of the monies earned through this event go for scholarships and grants to local community organizations.

Last, but certainly not least, GOGC will celebrate its 60th anniversary at the annual Christmas Party and Installation of Officers.

POEM BY DEBRA BARHIGHT, PARKLAND GC

Mother Earth and God Our Father

Our problems are real
A space in time to heal?
Our patiently hopeful Mother Earth

Land and water, sky of Beauty
Mother Earth is crying for help
We have shirked our duty

To honor, love, protect our gift of plenty
Consuming all—not proceeding gently
Carelessly taking without a thought

Help us learn to use our resources slowly
Whether vast and mighty---or one and lowly
Father open our eyes to the lies of greed and neglect

Rushing and ignoring the beauty around us,
She’s struggling to remain thus
God our Father we take your world for granted

Help us see with new eyes and heart
That we must all do our part
To Love Her as You do

2022 KEYSTONE EVENTS

Duboistown Garden Club's Annual Artisan Market will be held on November 19 and 20th at the YWCA, 815 W. 4th Street, Williamsport, PA. The market will be held in conjunction with Victorian Christmas.

Gettysburg Garden Club Annual Christmas Greens and Gourmet Gifts Sale will be held Saturday, December 3, 9:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m., or until everything is sold. The sale is at the Gettysburg Fire Hall, 35 North Stratton Street. Proceeds benefit the Lincoln Square Flower Gardens and scholarships for Adams County students majoring in horticulture-related fields. The Gettysburg Garden Club accepts cash, credit card, or check for purchases.

The community can expect the same range and quality of handcrafted arrangements that our members create. We will have wreaths, swags, candles, and large to small table arrangements. All decorations have natural greens from the yards and farms of club members and the community. Our delicious gourmet selections for humans, dogs, and cats will return with the same taste that customers enjoy each year. We suggest arriving early and browsing through our wide range of selections. Contact Joan Horak, at 717-357-5615, or visit the Gettysburg Garden Club Facebook page for additional details.
